

NEW BOROUGH OF SOUTHEEND-ON-SEA

(WHICH WILL BE SHORTLY INCORPORATED)

The magnificent FREEHOLD and MANORIAL BUILDING ESTATE of Chalkwell Hall, Southend-on-Sea, with the adjacent Freehold Foreshore, commanding lovely views of the river Thames, Sheerness, and the Kentish coast, adjoining the property of the present Local Board, and to be SOLD, with possession.

The building land consists of 260 acres, with a frontage of nearly one mile on the main high road from Southend to Leigh, and with a frontage of over half a mile to the sea; the whole estate is fitted for high-class residences, and when built would command a ready sale.

The land is well timbered, and there is a good supply of water, and lies with a gentle fall of about 120 ft. to the Thames.

The present railway service is 50 minutes to the City.

A new station will be built on the property (for which there is at present a siding), or within a few minutes' walk from the property.

The Foreshore.—The Chalkwell Hall foreshore extends on the south to the Swatch, and on this foreshore there is the crowstone, the boundary of the Thames Conservancy Board.

A new pier and marine lake could very inexpensively be built and formed. Sea swimming baths, &c. Dunes, Rents, Licences, &c.—The beach and the foreshore, like unto the Southend Local Board's property, which it adjoins, can be made most productive.

The above property offers a legitimate and safe field of enterprise for the profitable employment of large capital, and for a public investment as a Freehold Land and Building Company, offers unexceptional advantages to the experienced promulgator seldom met with. No letters answered, personal application only.

CURRENT TOPICS.

LORD JUSTICE BOWEN, on the first day of the sittings, made his appearance in court for a short time, but has since been unable to attend in consequence of a severe cold. It is, however, hoped that he will be able to take his seat on Monday next. During his absence LORD COLERIDGE has been sitting in Appeal Court No. 2.

IN THE CASE of Evans v. Evans (reported ante, p. 425) the short point was, whether a limitation in a deed to "A. for life without impeachment of waste, with remainder to the use of such person or persons as at the decease of A. shall be his heir or heirs-at-law, and of the heirs and assigns of such person or persons," conferred an estate for life or an estate in fee simple on A. Mr. Justice KEKEWICH (W. N., 1892, p. 11) decided that the case was governed by Fuller v. Chamier (L. R. 2 Eq. 682); that the rule in Shelley's case was applicable, and that A. took the fee simple. This decision created some excitement among conveyancers, as, if correct, it shewed that the common form, 4 Davidson's Precedents, 450, note (d), used for giving the fee simple to the person who happens to be the heir-at-law of a testator at a particular time was erroneous. Happily the Court of Appeal took a different view, and held that A. took for life only. Our readers should study the luminous judgment of Lord Justice LINDLEY, explaining the rule in Shelley's case, which we hope shortly to discuss at length.

THE COURT of Appeal decided on Wednesday, in the case of Rogers v. Rice (reported elsewhere), that, under sub-section 2 of section 14 of the Conveyancing Act, 1881, relief against the forfeiture of a lease for breach of covenant cannot be granted if the lessee's application is not made until after the lessor has recovered possession of the demised premises in respect of the breach. The application must be made while the lessor is still proceeding to recover possession; if it is made after the proceeding has been successfully terminated, it is too late. Sub-section 2 provides that "where a lessor is proceeding, by action or otherwise, to enforce such a right of re-entry or forfeiture, the lessee may, in the lessor's action, if any, or in any action brought by himself, apply to the court for relief; and the court may grant or refuse relief, as the court, having regard to the proceedings and conduct of the parties under the foregoing provisions of this section, and to all the other circumstances, thinks fit." These words could hardly, we think, admit of any other construction, but the point appears not to have been previously raised for actual decision. In Quilter v. Mapleson (26 SOLICITORS' JOURNAL, 529, 9 Q. B. D. 672) the late Sir GEORGE JESSEL and Lords Justices LINDLEY and BOWEN seem to have treated it as a matter of course that this was the meaning of the sub-section, but in that case the point did not really arise, because the application for relief was made by the lessee in the lessor's action to recover possession, which was still pending. In the present case the lessor had recovered possession before the application for relief was made, and, consequently, the opinion expressed by the court in Quilter v. Mapleson, which amounted then only to a dictum, has now acquired the form of a judicial decision.

WE PRINT elsewhere the new winding-up rules, which come into force on May 6th. We have already stated the substance of them (ante, p. 407), but it may be convenient if we again call attention to the principal changes which they introduce. The procedure will still be governed in most matters of detail by the rules of 1890, and the present rules are to be construed with, and deemed to form one set of rules with, them (rule 37). The fundamental change, of course, is that the jurisdiction of the High Court will now be exercised by Mr. Justice VAUGHAN

WILLIAMS instead of by the judges of the Chancery Division; and the duties hitherto performed by the chief clerks and registrars of that division will be performed by the "registrar" as now defined. Under rule 35 (1) the expression includes any of the registrars in bankruptcy, and "any person who shall be appointed to fill the office of registrar" under the rules. But, by rule 2 (1), all winding-up business is to be attached to one or more of the registrars, and for the present apparently it will be under the control of Mr. EMDEN, the specially appointed registrar. This, however, is subject to the provision of rule 2 (2), that every other registrar may act for the registrar to whom the business is attached. The judge and the registrar being thus appointed, it is important to notice to what extent they will attract to themselves pending proceedings. This is settled by rule 1. Under this the new rules apply to all winding-up proceedings where the petition to wind up or to continue a voluntary winding up under supervision has been presented, or an application in a voluntary winding up has for the first time been made, on or since the 1st of January, 1891. This, it will be noticed, is the date on which the Companies (Winding-Up) Act, 1890, and the rules of 1890 came into force. But the judge before whom any such proceedings are pending when the present rules come into operation may, if he thinks it expedient, retain them. And, in addition to the ordinary business in winding up, rule 14 enables Mr. Justice VAUGHAN WILLIAMS to exercise the power of R. S. C., 1883, ord. 49, r. 5, and order the transfer to himself of any cause or matter pending in any other court or division brought or continued by or against the company. This, however, is subject to the important qualification that the rule is not to authorize the transfer of any action by a mortgagee or debenture-holder for the purpose of realizing his security, nor the transfer of any action which is not brought to enforce payment of a debt or demand provable in the winding up.

OCCASION is now taken to state somewhat more explicitly than was done in the rules of 1890 the business which is to be heard by the judge in open court. By rule 3 (1) this includes (a) petitions; (b) appeals from the Board of Trade and the official receiver to the High Court; (c) applications by the Board of Trade under section 15 of the Act of 1890; (d) applications for committal for contempt; and finally (e) such matters and applications as the judge may from time to time, by any general or special orders, direct to be heard before him in open court. But examinations under section 115 of the Act of 1862 of any officer of the company or person suspected of having in his possession any of the property of the company, or supposed to be indebted to the company, or considered capable of giving information about the business or property of the company, will, unless the judge otherwise directs, be held before the registrar in chambers. All other business, except public examinations directed under section 8 of the Act of 1890, will be taken in chambers, and the registrar, acting under the general or special directions of the judge, is empowered to deal with it. As to public examinations, a step is taken in the right direction. By rule 26 they are to be held before the judge, and it may be assumed that this is the course which is intended to be generally adopted. But the judge is empowered to delegate them in whole or in part to the registrar or to any of the persons specified in sub-section 9 of the last mentioned section. In such a case, however, where the registrar or other person so conducting the examination is of opinion that it is being unduly or unnecessarily protracted, he may adjourn any part of it to be held before the judge. It is to be hoped that this provision will check the tendency to lengthy examinations which has already become noticeable. In matters of detail there are not any very considerable changes. The rules of February, 1891, are annulled, but the bulk of them (rr. 1 to 7) are reproduced in rules 18 to 24. By rule 25 resolutions at meetings of creditors and contributories held under the Act of 1890 are to be deemed to be passed when a majority in number and value of the creditors and contributories respectively have voted in favour of it. This is made to apply to contributories by providing that the value of a contributory shall be determined by the number of votes conferred upon him by the regulations of the company. The rule replaces rule 53 of the rules of 1890, by which section 91 of the Act of 1862 had been made to apply. It should be noticed that by rule 28 the registrar is placed in the position of a general taxing master, and no payments in respect of bills or charges of solicitors, managers, accountants, brokers, or other persons are to be allowed out of the assets of the company without proof that they have been considered and allowed by that official.

UNDER THE Local Registration of Title (Ireland) Act, 1891, a semi-compulsory system of registration of title and land transfer came into operation in Ireland at the commencement of the present year. The system is compulsory only in the case of State-assisted tenant-purchasers; with regard to all other land-owners recourse to it is voluntary. It is interesting to observe that, three months after the Act has come into operation, Mr. MADDEN, the Irish Attorney-General, has thought it necessary to issue a pamphlet, explaining for the benefit of laymen the nature and history of the system embodied in the new Act. One may surmise, from the fact that the author of the Act considers this course necessary, that the landowners of Ireland have not hitherto manifested much eagerness to avail themselves of the new system. At the same time we ought, in justice to Mr. MADDEN, to say that he is the very reverse of a "faddist," determined by hook or by crook to force his scheme on an unwilling public. He speaks very frankly and sensibly on the subject, admitting that time alone can answer the inquiry how far the Act will be adopted by purchasers; that the experience of the English Acts is unfavourable, and that even in the case of tenant-purchasers the process of adoption of the Act must be a gradual one. His account of the history and provisions of the measure is uncommonly clear and interesting, and suggests some reflections on the differences which exist between the history and provisions of the Irish Act and those of Lord HALSBURY's proposals. In the first place, during the two years which elapsed between the circulation of the Irish Bill and its passing into law, it was submitted for examination and suggestions to members of the Irish bench and bar, to the Irish Incorporated Law Society, to representatives of the Clerks of the Crown and Peace, and to officials in the existing registries in England and Ireland. The course pursued with regard to Lord HALSBURY's Bill was described by us in 1890 as follows: "We believe we are correct in saying that, not only has no advice been sought, or suggestion asked, from the body [the English solicitors] most practically conversant with land transfer, but, if rumour is correct, the request of their representatives for a conference for calm statement and discussion on the subject of the forthcoming Bill has been peremptorily rejected." In the next place, in the Irish Act the title of the registered owner is made unimpeachable, and the provisions of the English Bill for compensation of an evicted registered owner from the insurance fund are thrown overboard, as are also the provisions for registration of qualified and possessory titles. The result is that the Irish Act is comprised in ninety-five sections, while, as Mr. MADDEN drily remarks, "One of the latest of the Australasian systems, so much praised for their simplicity, required a statute containing more than two hundred sections for its development." Again, the working of the Irish system is placed under the control of the land judge—an official necessarily familiar with conveyancing and land law. And finally, an owner of registered land is enabled, if he pleases, at any time to revert to the old system; as to this Mr. MADDEN, with his accustomed frankness, remarks: "If I were a landowner, inclined to register under the Act, I should be more disposed to try the experiment if I were assured that the step was not irrevocable, but that I could revert to the old system, by a cheap and simple process, if experience should determine me in its favour."

AN INTERESTING, but as it seems to us somewhat doubtful, decision has been given by CHARLES J., in The English and Scottish Investment Co. v. Branstons (reported elsewhere) on the effect of the clause now commonly introduced into debentures whereby the company is prohibited from creating any charge in priority to the debentures. Without such restrictive words it is well settled that the debentures constitute only a floating charge upon the property of the company for the time being, but do not interfere with transactions whereby specific parts of the property are dealt with. "It would be a monstrous thing" said JESSEL, M.R., in Re Colonial Trusts Corporation (15 Ch. D., at p. 472), "to hold that the floating security prevented the making of specific charges or specific alienations of property, because it would destroy the very object for which the money was borrowed, namely, the carrying on of the business of the company." Accordingly the security does not in general attach definitely to the company's property until a winding up has commenced, or proceedings have been taken for the appointment of a receiver: Wheatley v. Silkstone Coal Co. (33 W. R. 797, 29 Ch. D. 715), Hubbuck v. Helmes (35 W. R. 574). This, however, is subject to any special terms contained in the debenture. Thus it may be made to attach so soon as the company has made default in payment of principal or interest: Re Horne to Hellard (29 Ch. D. 736). And so too where, under the words in question, the company is not to be at liberty to create any charge having priority to the debenture, a subsequent incumbrancer of specific assets, taking with notice of this restriction, cannot rely upon the above cases and claim such assets in priority to the debenture-holders. In the present case the question was whether the specific mortgagee, who had actual notice of the debentures, was affected with constructive notice of their contents, and CHARLES, J., held that he was not. His solicitor had inquired whether the debentures would interfere with the security, and, being informed that they would not, was satisfied with this reply and did not require to see them. He stated that he had never seen a debenture with the restrictive clause. CHARLES, J., held that he had not been guilty of gross negligence, and so far as the doctrine of constructive notice is founded on the existence of such negligence (see per Lord CRANWORTH in Ware v. Lord Egmont, 4 De G. M. & G., at p. 473) the purchaser was not affected by it. But we submit that this is hardly the correct manner in which to approach the subject. It may be that constructive notice is founded upon negligence, but this is negligence of a special kind, namely, the omission of a duty to make proper inquiries, and the extent of such inquiries under certain circumstances is well settled. Where a party has actual notice of a deed, it is his duty to examine the deed, and if he fail to do so, the court binds him with constructive notice of its contents. For this purpose, indeed, the deed must be one which necessarily affects the title, and so a purchaser who is informed that the vendor has executed a marriage settlement may rest satisfied with the assurance that it does not include the land in question: Jones v. Smith (1 Hare, 43). And CHARLES, J., relied upon this distinction, as well as upon the absence of gross negligence. The debentures, he said, did not necessarily affect the title. But this seems to be hardly correct. They created at least an inchoate right in the company's property, and whether they in fact left it open to the company to deal with the property was a matter, although the solicitor may not have known it, to be determined by their actual form. The case seems, indeed, to resemble Patman v. Harland (29 W. R. 707, 17 Ch. D. 353), where JESSEL, M.R., held that, if a deed forms part of the chain of title, no representation that it does not in fact offer any impediment to the transaction in hand can excuse the party from looking at it. A company which was selling real estate would hardly be justified in keeping debentures off the abstract.

ANOTHER POINT of some importance was decided in the same case. The Electrical and Engineering Corporation (Limited) had issued debentures covering their whole undertaking and property, and containing the above restriction upon the creation of prior charges. A fire having occurred on certain premises belonging to them, a sum of about £2,000 became payable by an insurance office, and upon the security of this they borrowed money from the English and Scottish Investment Co. The sum due from the office was assigned by the corporation to the company, and the latter duly gave notice of the assignment to the office. No notice of their claim had been given by the debenture-holders, who were represented in the action by the defendant BRANSTON, and upon this ground the plaintiff company claimed, and were allowed, priority. It was argued on behalf of the debenture-holders that a subsequent assignee of a chose in action only acquires priority by notice in consequence of the negligence of the first assignee in omitting to give notice, and that where the omission does not arise from negligence on the part of the first assignee, then he is not to be postponed. In the present instance, it was said, the debenture-holders did not know of the existence of the insurance fund, and, therefore, could not be charged with negligence in not giving notice to the office. But CHARLES, J., held that the first assignee is postponed, not for his negligence, but because he has failed to complete his title, and this seems to be the correct view. It is true that in Dearle v. Hall (3 Russ. 1) Sir THOMAS PLUMER, M.R., laid stress on the circumstance that the first assignee had been negligent, and that by this negligence the property had remained in the power of the assignor so as to enable him to dispose of it over again. But still more stress was laid upon the fact that the title was not complete until possession had as far as possible been taken. In this respect, perhaps, the reasoning was not altogether satisfactory, seeing that it was based on the assumed necessity for the delivery of possession in every transfer of personal property. A certain confusion seems to have prevailed between this and the effect of "apparent ownership" under the bankruptcy laws, and hence Ryall v. Roules (1 Ves. sen. 348) was regarded as being in point. But no harm has been done by the confusion, and, if the rule is not true of personal property generally, the assignee of a chose in action, at any rate, does not obtain a title as against the world in general until he has taken possession, and this he does by giving notice to the holder of the fund. "The act of giving the trustee notice," said Lord LYNCHURST (3 Russ., at p. 58), "is, in a certain degree, taking possession of the fund; it is going as far towards equitable possession as it is possible to go." Hence, in the present case, whether the debenture-holders had been negligent or not, the plaintiff company had completed its title first, and on this ground was entitled to priority.

MANY OF OUR readers will have heard with great regret of the death of Mr. DECIMUS STURGES, of Lincoln's-inn, which occurred at Leamington on Wednesday last. He had a severe illness some time ago, but had apparently recovered, and was at work until near the close of the last sittings. He was a man of great ability, and a sound lawyer, with a tenacious grasp of principle; and with those qualifications and a considerable practice, it was perhaps a matter of some surprise that he never aspired to a silk gown. His character was eminently generous, chivalrous, and high-minded, and earned him great popularity among his colleagues at the bar. Some years ago he was an occasional contributor to the columns of this journal, and his contributions were always characterized by the grasp of principle and broad and common sense views which marked all his work.

A COURT OF FIRST AND FINAL APPEAL.

IN an article entitled "The Reform of Legal Administration," contained in the current number of the Law Quarterly Review, Mr. SNOW has referred to a suggestion of mine that in the case of every action in which an appeal is entered, either party should be entitled to demand that the whole case should be there and then determined finally and conclusively without the possibility of any further appeal. Mr. SNOW's reference to my proposal was necessarily restricted to a short outline sketch, and I readily avail myself of the opportunity afforded me by the editor of this journal to explain it more fully.

Before any proposal to materially alter our existing system of legal procedure can be entertained, I am well aware that there are two requirements which must be met. The necessity for it must be shewn, if it has not already made itself felt; and the feasibility of it must be proved to demonstration.

The necessity for reducing the number of appeals has already found expression in the terms of the commission issued to the Judges' Committee appointed to inquire into the working of the Judicature Acts and Rules. But it is not a mere reduction of the number of appeals which is aimed at by my proposal. It is that where both parties desire it there shall be only one hearing and no appeal; and that there shall be one appeal, and one only, wherever either of the parties desires to prevent a further appeal. Some good reason must no doubt be given for such a new departure as this. Before attempting to meet this requirement let me guard my proposal from misapprehension on one all-important point. It does not aim at any interference whatever with the constitution of the House of Lords as the highest court of final appeal in the realm, except that in practical working its effect may be to withdraw some of the English appeals which now come before that assembly—possibly all of them. But it will only enable litigants to do this. It will not compel them to do so.

One of the great reasons which may be urged in favour of establishing a Court of First and Final Appeal is that the existing system is driving away business from the court. Why, for example, have commercial cases almost left our courts? It would, perhaps, be dangerous to attempt to answer this difficult question. But it may be permissible to inquire, by way of enlightenment, how these cases are decided now that they have left the High Court. They are decided by arbitration. Are we to conclude, then, that their withdrawal from the High Court is due to lack of confidence in our judges? Such a conclusion would probably be altogether wide of the mark. What other difference, then, exists? Why, this very striking difference. The arbitrator's decision is final. Two commercial men, or firms, therefore, launched on a dispute with one another have two alternatives to choose from. They can either let their differences be determined finally and speedily by an arbitrator, or they can face an action at law with the knowledge that before finality can be reached the case may drag its weary and costly length through appeal after appeal until some two years later the House of Lords decides it. To lose finally and quickly is often a better prospect for a commercial man than the risk of having to pay ruinous costs, and incur delay which may be even more ruinous. It may be said that if arbitration works advantageously in the settlement of trade disputes it is better that such disputes should not come into court. But what if commercial men have been driven to adopt the arbitration method of settling their disputes because the alternative offered by the High Court is inherently bad on account of the fact that finality is placed in the extreme distance? Surely that is a good reason for bringing finality within easy reach of every suitor, if that can be done with advantage and without great difficulty or fundamental change. Commercial men are by no means the only people who dread our system of interminable and costly appeals. All suitors dread it, and we do not, surely, want to drive all suitors away from our courts.

In the following plan I presuppose the abolition of Divisional Courts as courts of intermediate appeal:—

- (1) In any cause or matter brought before the Court of Appeal either the appellant or respondent may as of right, and after notice to the other side, enter the same as a final appeal.
- (2) Either party to an appeal so entered as a final appeal may, in like manner, require that the same shall be heard by not less than five judges. In the absence of a demand from either party that the same be heard by five judges, such final appeal shall be heard by three judges.
- (3) A requisition for a court of not less than five judges shall bear a special fee (to be prescribed), and such fee shall be borne and paid by the party making such requisition, irrespective of the result of the trial: Provided that, if the court shall certify that the case was a proper one to be tried by not less than five judges, such special fee shall be allowed on taxation as costs in the cause.
- (4) All Lords of Appeal in Ordinary, and peers of Parliament having held high judicial office, and all judges of the Court of Appeal shall be liable to be called upon by the Lord Chancellor to sit as judges of the Court of Appeal on the hearing of final appeals, and when so sitting shall constitute a Court of First and Final Appeal.
- (5) A Court of First and Final Appeal consisting of five judges shall be in the same position with respect to all previous judgments and precedents cited before it as the House of Lords would have been had such judgments and precedents been there cited on the hearing of an appeal from the Court of Appeal.

Commercial Cases.

- (6) In every cause or matter set down for trial either by a judge with a jury or by a judge without a jury, the parties thereto may, by consent in writing signed by them or their solicitors, and filed with the record, agree that the judgment and verdict therein shall be final and conclusive as between the parties; and thereupon the cause or matter shall be entered for first and final hearing, and there shall be no appeal from the judgment therein, or from any decision of the judge upon the trial thereof, and no motion shall lie to set aside the verdict of the jury therein. Provided that, if the case is tried with a jury, the judge may, if he shall think fit, refuse to enter judgment in accordance with the verdict of the jury, and either party shall be at liberty to appeal to the Court of Appeal against such refusal of the judge. On the hearing of such appeal the Court of Appeal shall have power to draw inferences of fact, and to give any judgment and make any order which ought to have been made, and to make such further or other order as the case may require, and its decision shall be final.
- (7) Wherever the parties to an action are agreed as to the facts, they may, immediately after the issue of the writ, concur in stating such facts in the form of a special case, and may thereupon proceed to trial upon the facts so stated.
- (8) An action by special case as in (7) mentioned may be set down for hearing before a judge without a jury, and such judge shall have power to examine the parties to the action and their respective witnesses and to order the production before him of all books, deeds, papers, and writings in their, or either of their, custody or power relating to the matters in question, and to direct any fact or facts not stated in the special case to be proved before him; and his judgment shall be final and conclusive, and there shall be no appeal therefrom.
- (9) Either party to an action by special case as in (7) mentioned may, after notice to the other side, require that the same be heard by the Court of Appeal instead of by a single judge, and the same shall be so heard by three judges of the Court of Appeal, who shall have all the powers, &c. (as in (8) mentioned), and whose judgment shall be final and conclusive, and there shall be no appeal therefrom.
- (10) A requisition demanding that an action by special case be heard by the Court of Appeal shall bear a special fee (to be prescribed), and such fee shall be borne and paid by the party making such requisition irrespective of the result of the trial: Provided that if the court at the hearing shall certify that the case was a proper one to be tried by the Court of Appeal, instead of by a single judge, such special fee shall be allowed on taxation as costs in the cause.

That is the proposal. I do not profess to have supplied all the necessary details. I have simply endeavoured to give a clear indication of the main object of my suggestion. As regards the part headed "Commercial Cases," I have used that heading as an explanation merely of the purpose of that portion of the plan, not as in any way limiting its operation to commercial cases. I am persuaded that with a strong judge to preside over a special list of commercial cases (Mr. Justice MATHEW, for example), and a simple and rapid mode of procedure towards a final decision, commercial business would come back to the courts. My plan is, in effect, a system of judicial arbitration by agreement, and without appeal.

As to the first part of the above proposal, it may be said that it is only an indirect way of depriving the House of Lords of its appellate jurisdiction so far as England is concerned. My answer to that is that it does not touch the appellate jurisdiction of the House of Lords at all. It merely gives parties to legal proceedings in England the option of doing without the House of Lords. If they exercise that option so freely that no English appeals go to the House of Lords, it will only shew that the plan proposed is completely successful, and was greatly needed. After all, the appellate jurisdiction of the House of Lords exists solely for the benefit of suitors, and if they prefer to do without it they ought to have the option of doing so.

On the other hand, it may be said that so few English appeals go to the House of Lords that it is not necessary to make special provisions which would only affect comparatively few persons. But my whole point is that the absolute right which now exists for either party to an action to carry the case to the House of Lords stands like a bold notice-board warning all people of substantial means who come into conflict with one another in business relations to keep away from the courts altogether. That notice-board stares them in the face, and bids them beware of bringing their dispute to the court to determine, because, however strong their case may be, the action may be forced by their opponents through three successive appeals up to the House of Lords. The fact of there being few English appeals to the House of Lords, therefore, only seems to tell me that the best class of business is being lost, and the best class of litigants are being kept away by fear of consequences, and this seems to emphasize the necessity for some such change as I have sketched.

But it may be said that the party to the action who did not set the first appeal down as a final appeal would, under the proposed arrangement, be deprived by the act of his opponent of his constitutional right to appeal to the House of Lords. His opponent, by setting the case down as a final appeal, would have barred him, possibly against his wish, from carrying the appeal higher. This is no doubt true, but his interests would still be absolutely protected. He could not go to the House of Lords, but he could require, as a matter of right, that the appeal should be heard by a court of equal strength and ability, and with all the powers and freedom of the House of Lords; only, if the case was not of sufficient difficulty and importance to require the services of more than three judges, he would have to pay for the luxury of having five, whether he won or lost the case.

I have answered three possible objections to my plan. Let me try and picture the great advantages which would result from it. In the first place, the existing idea that "going to law" is equivalent to embarking on a dangerous voyage of uncertain duration would cease to exist. An intending suitor could look forward with certainty to a prompt and final determination of his case. One does not need to be a lawyer to realize the force of such a fact as this: that by consent of parties the original hearing of a case may be made final and conclusive; that in the absence of such consent either party can prevent the other from appealing more than once; and that such first and final appeal would be decided within two or three months after the original hearing. The whole community would know that in the Supreme Court a businesslike and economical promptitude and decisiveness had taken the place of a system of costly delays and successive appeals from one tribunal to another, stretching away into the undefined future. It would be rash to say that the proposed change would bring commercial cases back to the High Court, because a trade lost is never easily regained. There is reason to hope, however, that it would even do that. At any rate, it would, I am persuaded, bring home to the mind of the public at large a truth which they do not at present realize—viz., that our system of civil procedure exists for their benefit, to enable them to obtain justice with as little delay and as little expense as possible. The prevailing impression, which appears to be steadily deepening as time goes on, is that the Judicature Acts and Rules have failed to expedite and cheapen the administration of civil law, and that it is as tardy and as costly as it was before those great measures of reform were passed. The impression is undoubtedly erroneous, but that it exists will hardly be denied, and that its existence is mainly owing to the established system of successive appeals is more than probable.

In conclusion, it may be well to point out that all the materials requisite for the proposed change already exist. The abolition of Divisional Courts would enable the Court of Appeal to be strengthened without the appointment of additional judges, and the proposed utilization on the hearing of final appeals in the Court of Appeal of the services of some of those judges who at present sit in the House of Lords would furnish the additional judicial strength required. We have recently had a most signal proof of the great advantage which may result from the presence in our Court of Appeal of a judge imported from the House of Lords. I am only stating what is generally admitted when I say that the presence of Lord HERSCHELL in the Court of Appeal during Lord Justice BOWEN's illness gave universal satisfaction. I merely mention this well-known fact to shew that there is no real difficulty in the way of utilizing the services of ex-Lord Chancellors and Lords of Appeal in Ordinary for the disposal of a list of final appeals to the Court of Appeal.

FRANCIS A. STRINGER.

THE LAW OF "EVIDENCE IN SHORTHAND."

IN view of the perplexity and discussion—lay, forensic, and judicial—to which the subject is at present giving rise, a brief examination of the law relating to "evidence in shorthand" may be neither uninteresting nor unimportant. It is thought that the following propositions accurately represent the effect of the authorities:—

1. The taxing master has no authority to allow, in a taxation between party and party, the costs of employing shorthand writers to take notes of the evidence on the trial or of copies of such notes, unless specially directed by the judge (Kirkwood v. Webster, 1878, 9 Ch. D., at p. 240),* and an agreement between the solicitors to share the expense of a shorthand writer does not make that expense part of the costs of the action; it is a mere arrangement for saving expense, and leaves the case on the same footing as if each party had employed his own shorthand writer (Ashworth v. Outram, 1878, 9 Ch. D., at p. 486).

2. The "special direction"† above referred to must be applied for immediately after judgment is delivered, or, at any rate, before the order is drawn up (Hill v. Managers of Metropolitan District Asylum, 1880, 43 L. T. 462),‡ partly because the facts are then fresh in the minds of the judges and the question whether the costs of shorthand notes should be allowed can be satisfactorily determined, partly because the court has no authority to alter its final orders except in cases where a slip order may properly be made (cf. Glasier v. Rolls, 1890, 62 L. T. 360).

3. Neither a judge nor a taxing officer, under R. S. C., 1883, ord. 65, r. 27 (25), has jurisdiction to order adversely that a shorthand writer shall be employed (Re Hilleary and Taylor, 1887, 36 Ch. D. 262). This rule does not, of course, collide with the decisions which affirm the right of the judge to give special directions as to the allowance of the costs of shorthand notes of evidence.

4. The costs of shorthand notes of evidence will not be allowed either in the High Court or in the Court of Appeal unless under special circumstances. It is submitted that no arbitrary distinction between the practice of the High Court and that of the Court of Appeal in this matter (cf. Annual Practice, 1882, p. 1022) ought to, or indeed can, be drawn.

Illustrations.—(1) In Lea Conservancy Board v. Button (1878, 12 Ch. D. 383), an action affecting the rights of adjacent owners in the river Lea, the evidence lasted for four days; and the case was one of great difficulty and importance. Shorthand notes of the vidé voce evidence were taken. MALINS, V.C., allowed the costs of these notes. "My reason," said his lordship, "is this, that it is a very long case. My notes are very full, and I hope correct; but in some cases, knowing that shorthand notes were being taken, I have referred to them, because it would be impossible for me to take down the whole of the evidence." This was a reasonable exercise of judicial discretion, whether the Vice-Chancellor's object was to take full notes for the purpose of arriving at his own decision, or whether, as seems more probable, he had the certainty of an appeal in view. (2) If the preceding case had turned chiefly on a point of law, and had not involved any minute questions of fact, the allowance of shorthand notes of evidence would have been wrong (cf. Glasier v. Rolls, ubi sup.). (3) W. sued the Great Western Railway Co. for negligence. At the trial shorthand notes of the evidence were taken. Judgment was given for the plaintiff. A rule nisi for a new trial, on the ground that the verdict was against the weight of the evidence, was obtained by the defendants. Thereupon the plaintiffs had copies of the notes made for the purposes of the appeal. The Common Pleas Division discharged the rule nisi, and allowed the costs of the transcript. Here no special direction by the judge who tried the action could have been applied for, because until the rule nisi for a new trial was granted it could not be foreseen that copies of the shorthand notes would be required. Again, the notes were essential for the information of the court upon the argument of the rule as to what passed at the trial (Watson v. Great Western Railway Co., 1880, 6 Q. B. D. 163). The cases cited in the Annual Practice, at p. 1022, with reference to the allowance of the costs of shorthand notes in the Court of Appeal turn on considerations of the same kind as those which we have been examining, with this difference, that, both by the Rules of Court (R. S. C., 1883, ord. 58, r. 11 (b)) and by the theory of the law, the trial judge's notes, supplemented if necessary by the notes of counsel, are, for the purposes of an appeal, made the best evidence of what transpired in the court below. To say, however, as the editors of the Annual Practice do (ad loc cit), that while the costs of shorthand notes "will be allowed in the High Court where they are essential to the hearing of the case, they will only be allowed on an appeal under very special circumstances where they are necessary for the purpose of an appeal," is to establish an antithesis that has no logical justification, and to magnify a difference in degree into a difference in kind.

* Prior to this decision the practice seems not to have been clearly settled (see per FRY, J., ubi sup., at p. 242).

† The question what will constitute a "special direction" does not appear to have received much judicial consideration. In Nelson v. Hamilton (1888, 57 L. T. 648) BACON, V.C., had allowed the defendants their "costs, charges, and expenses." Query per COTTON, L.J., whether this was "a special direction."

‡ And cf. Earl de la Warr v. Miles (1881, 19 Ch. D. 90). The costs of the shorthand writer's notes of the judgment in the court below were allowed, without special application in the court below (Re Morgan, 1887, 35 Ch. D., at p. 501).

5. A solicitor cannot claim as against his client the costs of shorthand notes of evidence, although the latter has authorized the employment of a shorthand writer, unless the solicitor clearly explained to the client that such costs are in the nature of extras, which he will not be allowed on taxation (Re Blyth and Fanshawe, 1882, 10 Q. B. D. 207, and cf. Nation v. Hamilton, 57 L. T. 648).

We have now examined the practice relating to evidence in shorthand with sufficient fulness to understand the judicial jealousy with which it is regarded. It is costly. Consisting, as it often does, of a verbatim record of interlocutory observations and irrelevant questions (cf. the language of the Master of the Rolls in Ungar v. Sugg, 1892, 9 P. O. R., at p. 117), it does not always expedite the hearing of an appeal. Finally, the judge's notes are the best evidence in point of fact as well as in point of law. Shorthand writers, however competent, are not lawyers; they are liable to be changed during the progress of a case; and, except in arbitration and commission work, they cannot generally require a witness to repeat his answer (cf. Earl de la Warr v. Miles, ubi sup.). An adaptation of the practice prevailing in some of the Scotch courts, according to which, in special cases, the judge dictates the evidence in the form of a narrative to an official shorthand writer, might perhaps be usefully introduced into this country.

A parliamentary return just published shews that during 1891 the Queen's Bench judges were absent from London on assize business for 1,239 days, and their allowances, at the rate of £7 10s. a day, amounted to £9,292 10s. Further, their railway fares cost £173, and the railway fares and cab allowances of their clerks £278. Marshals to judges, who are each paid two guineas per diem, received £2,583; while the clerks of assize were paid £4,140 in the shape of "subsistence allowances."

NEW ORDERS, &c.

COMPANIES (WINDING-UP) ACT, 1890.

Whereas under and pursuant to section 5 of the Supreme Court of Judicature Act, 1884, the Honourable Mr. Justice Vaughan Williams (being the judge of the High Court who for the time being exercises the bankruptcy jurisdiction of the High Court) has consented, with the concurrence of the Lord Chief Justice of England, to sit and act as an additional judge of the Chancery Division of the High Court, for the purpose of hearing the causes and matters assigned to him by the Lord Chancellor or any applications therein. Now therefore I, the Right Honourable Hardinge Stanley, Baron Halsbury, Lord High Chancellor of Great Britain, do hereby, by virtue of the powers vested in me by section 2 of the Companies (Winding-up) Act, 1890, section 5 of the Supreme Court of Judicature Act, 1884, and all other powers enabling me in that behalf, Order that, on and after the 6th day of May, 1892, the jurisdiction of the High Court under the Companies (Winding-up) Act, 1890, shall until further order be exercised by the Honourable Mr. Justice Vaughan Williams, sitting and acting for the purpose of the exercise of such jurisdiction as an additional Judge of the Chancery Division, and the said Judge shall, on and after the day aforesaid, and until further order, be the Judge of the High Court assigned for the purpose of the exercise of that jurisdiction, pursuant to the Companies (Winding-up) Act, 1890.

The 26th day of March 1892.

COMPANIES ACTS, 1862 TO 1890.

GENERAL RULES MADE PURSUANT TO THE COMPANIES ACTS, 1862 TO 1890, AND THE JUDICATURE ACT, 1881.

PART I.—Procedure in the High Court.

PART II.—Rules relating to Winding-up Matters in all Courts to which Jurisdiction is given under the Acts.

Preliminary.

1. Application of rules.] These rules shall apply to all proceedings for or in relation to the winding-up of a company where a petition to wind up the company or to continue the voluntary winding-up of the company under the supervision of the Court has been presented, or where an application in the voluntary winding-up of the company has for the first time been made, on or after the 1st day of January, 1891; unless the Judge before whom any such proceedings may be pending when these rules come into operation shall think it expedient to retain them.

PART I.—PROCEDURE IN THE HIGH COURT.

Court and Chambers.

2. Office of Registrar in High Court.] (1.) All proceedings in the winding-up of companies in the High Court to which these rules apply shall be from time to time attached to one or more of the Registrars, who shall, together with the necessary clerks and officers, and subject to the Acts and rules, act under the general or special directions of the Judge of the High Court.

(2.) Every other Registrar may act for and in place of such Registrar as above mentioned in all proceedings under the Acts and rules, including the holding of public examinations, and when so acting such other Registrar shall be deemed to be the Registrar for the purposes of the Acts and rules.

3. Matters in High Court to be heard in Court.] (1.) The following matters and applications shall be heard before the Judge of the High Court in open Court:—

- (a.) Petitions.
- (b.) Appeals from the Board of Trade and Official Receiver to the High Court.
- (c.) Applications by the Board of Trade under section 15 of the Companies (Winding-up) Act, 1890.
- (d.) Applications for the committal of any person to prison for contempt.
- (e.) Such matters and applications as the Judge may from time to time by any general or special orders direct to be heard before him in open Court.

(2.) Examinations of persons summoned before the High Court under section 115 of the Companies Act, 1862, shall, unless the Judge of the High Court shall otherwise direct, be held before the Registrar in Chambers.

(3.) Every other matter or application in the High Court under the Acts to which the rules apply may be heard and determined in Chambers.

4. Applications in Chambers.] Subject to the provisions of the Acts and rules, the Registrar may, under the general or special directions of the Judge, hear and determine any application or matter in the High Court which, under the Acts and rules, may be heard and determined in Chambers. Any matter or application in Chambers may at any time be adjourned from Chambers to be heard by the Judge of the High Court in Court, and any matter or application in Court may be adjourned to be heard and dealt with in Chambers.

5. Applications in Court and Chambers. Applications in Court, other than petitions, shall be made by motion, notice of which shall be served on every person against whom an order is sought not less than two clear days before the day named in the notice for hearing the motion. Applications in Chambers, other than ex parte applications, shall be made by summons.

Proceedings.

6. Title in High Court. (1.) Every proceeding in the High Court in a winding-up matter to which these rules apply shall be dated, and shall be intitled as follows:—
In the High Court of Justice.

Companies (Winding-Up).

Mr. Justice

In the matter of the Companies Acts, 1862 to 1890.

with the name of the matter to which it relates. Numbers and dates may be denoted by figures.

(2.) The first proceeding in every winding-up matter shall have a distinctive number assigned to it in the office of the Registrar, and all proceedings in any matter subsequent to the first proceeding shall bear the same number as the first proceeding.

7. Written or printed proceedings. All proceedings to which these rules apply shall be written or printed or partly written or partly printed on paper of the size of 13 inches in length and 8 inches in breadth, or thereabouts; but no objection shall be allowed to any proof, affidavit, or proxy on account only of its being written or printed on paper of other size.

8. Process to be sealed. All orders, summonses, petitions, warrants, process of any kind (including notices when issued by the Court), and office copies in any winding-up matter to which these rules apply shall be sealed.

9. Summonses. Form 58.] Every summons in a winding-up matter in the High Court to which these rules apply shall be prepared by the applicant or his solicitor, and issued from the office of the Registrar. A summons, when sealed, shall be deemed to be issued. The person obtaining the summons shall leave in the Registrar's office a duplicate which shall be stamped with the prescribed stamp and filed.

10. Orders. Every order, whether made in Court or in Chambers, in a winding-up matter in the High Court to which these rules apply, shall be drawn up by the Registrar, unless in any proceeding or classes of proceedings the Judge of the High Court or Registrar who makes the order shall direct that no order need be drawn up. Where a direction is given that no order need be drawn up the note or memorandum of the order, signed or initialled by the Judge of the High Court or the Registrar making the order, shall be sufficient evidence of the order having been made.

11. File of proceedings in office of Registrar. All petitions, affidavits, summonses, orders, proofs, notices, depositions, bills of costs, and other proceedings in the High Court in a winding-up matter to which these rules apply shall be kept and remain of record in the office of the Registrar in one continuous file, and no proceeding in any winding-up matter to which these rules apply shall, from and after the commencement of these rules, be filed in the Central Office.

12. Office copies. All office copies of petitions, affidavits, depositions, papers, and writings, or any parts thereof, required by any liquidator, contributory, creditor, officer of a company, or other person entitled thereto, shall be provided by the Registrar, and shall, except as to figures, be fairly written out at length, and be sealed and delivered out without any unnecessary delay and in the order in which they shall have been bespoken.

13. Warrants of arrest. A warrant of arrest issued by the High Court under Rule 76 of the Companies Winding-up Rules, 1890, shall be issued in the Central Office of the Supreme Court, pursuant to an order of the Judge directing such issue.

14. Transfer of actions. (1.) Where an order has been made in the High Court for the winding up of a company on a petition presented on or after the 1st day of January, 1891, the Judge of the High Court shall have power, without further consent, to order the transfer to him of any cause or matter pending in any other Court or Division brought or continued by or against the company.

(2.) Where any action brought by or against a company against which a winding-up order has been made is transferred to the Judge of the High Court, the Registrar may, under the general or special directions of the Judge, hear, determine, and deal with any application, matter, or proceeding which, if the action had not been transferred, would have been determined in Chambers.

(3.) Provided always that nothing in this Rule or in Order XLIX., Rule 5, of the Rules of the Supreme Court, 1883, shall authorize the transfer of any action by a mortgagee or debenture holder for the purpose of realizing his security nor the transfer of any action which is not brought to enforce payment of a debt or demand provable in the winding up.

Petitions in the High Court.

15. Petitions in High Court. A petition to the High Court in a winding-up matter to which these rules apply shall be presented at the office of the Registrar, who shall appoint the time and place at which the petition is to be heard. Notice of the time and place appointed for hearing the petition shall be written on the petition and sealed copies thereof, and the Registrar may from time to time alter the time appointed and fix another time.

Applications under Section 15 of the Companies (Winding-up) Act, 1890.

16. Applications by Board of Trade under s. 15 of the Act. Every application by the Board of Trade for the purpose of ascertaining and getting in money payable into the Bank of England, pursuant to section 15 of the Companies (Winding-up) Act, 1890, shall in a winding-up in the High Court to which these rules apply be made and dealt with by the Judge of the High Court upon motion.

Miscellaneous.

17. Proceedings in windings-up under supervision and voluntary windings-up. In all proceedings for the winding-up of a company under the supervision of the Court, or the voluntary winding-up of a company, to which these rules apply, the rules contained in the General Order of the High Court of Chancery dated the 11th of November, 1862, which relate to such proceedings, shall, so far as applicable, be observed subject to the following modifications:—

Expressions in the said order relating to the Judge shall be deemed to refer to the Judge of the High Court within the meaning of these rules.

Expressions in the said order relating to the Chief Clerk and the Chambers of the Judge shall be deemed to refer to the Registrar and his office.

All orders shall be drawn up and filed in the office of the Registrar in the manner herein-before provided with reference to orders made on the compulsory winding-up of a company, and Rule 11 of these rules, relating to the filing of affidavits and other documents in the Registrar's office, shall apply to all such proceedings.

PART II.

RULES RELATING TO WINDING-UP MATTERS IN ALL COURTS TO WHICH JURISDICTION IS GIVEN UNDER THE ACTS.

Hearing of Petitions and Orders made thereon.

18. Attendance before hearing to show compliance with rules as to petition. After a petition has been presented, the petitioner shall, on a day to be appointed by the Registrar, not less than two days before the day appointed for the hearing of the petition, attend before the Registrar and satisfy him that the petition has been duly advertised, that the prescribed affidavit verifying the statements therein and the affidavit of service (if any) have been duly filed, and that the provisions of the rules as to petitions for winding-up companies have been duly complied with by the petitioner. No order for the winding-up of a company shall be made on the petition of any petitioner who has not, prior to the hearing of the petition, attended before the Registrar at the time appointed and satisfied him in manner required by this rule.

19. Form of advertisement of petition. Form 3.] Every advertisement of a petition shall contain a note at the foot thereof stating that any person who intends to appear on the hearing of the petition, either to oppose or support, must send notice of his intention to the petitioner within the time and in the manner prescribed by the next succeeding rule; and an advertisement of a petition for the winding-up of a company by the Court which does not contain such a note shall be deemed irregular.

20. Notice by persons who intend to appear on hearing of petitions. Form 2.] Every person who intends to appear on the hearing of a petition shall serve on, or send by post, notice in writing of his intention to the petitioner at the address stated in the advertisement of the petition. The notice shall be signed by such person, or his solicitor, and shall be served, or if sent by post shall be posted in such time as in ordinary course of post to reach the address not later than six o'clock in the afternoon of the day previous to the day appointed for the hearing of the petition. The notice may be in Form 2, with such variations as circumstances may require. A person who has failed to comply with this rule shall not, without the special leave of the Court, be allowed to appear on the hearing of the petition.

21. List of names and addresses of persons who appear on the petition. Form 4.] The petitioner shall prepare a list of the names and addresses of the persons who have given notice of their intention to appear on the hearing of the petition, and of their respective solicitors, which shall be in Form 4. A fair copy of the list shall, on the day appointed for hearing the petition, be handed by the petitioner into Court prior to the hearing of the petition.

22. Notice that winding-up order has been pronounced to be given to

Official Receiver. Forms 5 and 6.] When an order for the winding-up of a company or for the appointment of the Official Receiver as provisional liquidator, prior to the making of an order for the winding-up of the company, has been pronounced in Court, the Registrar shall, on the same day, send to the Official Receiver a notice informing him that the order has been pronounced.

The notice may be in Forms 5 and 6 respectively, with such variations as circumstances may require.

23. Documents for drawing up order to be left with Registrar.] It shall be the duty of the petitioner, and of all other persons who have appeared on the hearing of the petition, at latest on the day following the day on which an order for the winding-up of a company is pronounced in Court, to leave at the Registrar's office all the documents required for the purpose of enabling the Registrar to complete the order forthwith.

24. No appointments for settling order.] It shall not be necessary for the Registrar to make an appointment to settle the order, or to give notice to any of the parties thereto, unless in any particular case the special circumstances make an appointment or notice necessary.

Ordinary Resolution of Creditors and Contributories.

25. Resolution of creditors and contributories.] At a meeting of creditors or contributories held in the winding-up of a company under the Companies (Winding-up) Act, 1890, a resolution shall be deemed to be passed when at a meeting of creditors a majority in number and value of the creditors present, personally or by proxy, and voting on the resolution, have voted in favour of the resolution, and at a meeting of the contributories when a majority in number and value of the contributories present, personally or by proxy, and voting on the resolution, have voted in favour of the resolution, the value of the contributories being determined according to the number of votes conferred on each contributory by the regulations of the company.

Public Examinations.

26. Public examinations.] Where the Judge makes an order under section 8 of the Companies (Winding-up) Act, 1890, directing any person or persons to attend for public examination:—

- (a.) The examination shall be held before the Judge. Provided that in the High Court the Judge may direct that the whole or any part of the examination of any such person or persons be held before the Registrar or before any of the persons mentioned in sub-section 9 of the said section.
- (b.) The Judge may, if he think fit, either in the order for examination, or by any subsequent orders, give directions as to the special matters on which any such person is to be examined.
- (c.) Where on an examination held before the Registrar or one of the persons mentioned in sub-section 9 of the said section he is of opinion that such examination is being unduly or unnecessarily protracted, or for any other sufficient cause, he may adjourn the examination of any person or any part of the examination to be held before the Judge.
- (d.) If the winding-up is in the Stannaries Court the examination shall be held before the Vice-Warden.

27. Depositions taken at public examinations.] Where in the course of the winding-up of a company an order has been made for the public examination of persons named in the order pursuant to section 8 of the Companies (Winding-up) Act, 1890, and it appears from the examination that the persons examined, or some of them, have misapplied, or retained, or become liable, or accountable for moneys or property of the Company, or been guilty of misfeasance or breach of trust in relation to the Company, then in any proceedings subsequently instituted under section 10 of the said Act, on the application of the official receiver or liquidator for the purpose of examining into the conduct of the said persons, or any of them, and compelling repayment or restoration to the company of any moneys or property, or contribution by way of compensation to the assets of the company by such persons, or any of them, the verified notes of the examination of such person who was examined under the order shall, subject as herein-after mentioned, and to any order or directions of the Court as to the manner and extent in and to which the notes shall be used, and subject to all just exceptions to the admissibility in evidence against any particular person or persons of any of the statements contained in the notes of the examinations, be admissible in evidence against any of the persons against whom the application is made who, under section 8 of the said Act and the order for the public examination, was or had the opportunity of being present at and taking part in the examination. Provided that before any such notes of a public examination shall be used on any such application, the person intending to use the same shall, not less than fifteen days before the day appointed for hearing the application, give notice of such intention to each person against whom it is intended to use such notes, or any of them, specifying the notes or parts of the notes which it is intended to read against him, and furnish him with copies of such notes, or parts of notes (except notes of the person's own depositions), and provided also that every person against whom the application is made shall be at liberty to cross-examine or re-examine (as the case may be) any person the notes of whose examination are read, in all respects as if such person had made an affidavit on the application.

Costs payable out of the Assets of the Company.

28. Costs.] No payments in respect of bills or charges of solicitors, managers, accountants, auctioneers, brokers, or other persons shall be allowed out of the assets of a company, in a winding-up matter to which these Rules apply, without proof that the same have been considered and allowed by the Registrar.

Time for dealing with Proof.

29. Proofs.] Subject to the power of the Court to extend the time, the Official Receiver as liquidator, not later than fourteen days from the latest date specified in the notice of his intention to declare a dividend as the time within which such proofs must be lodged, shall in writing either admit or reject wholly or in part every proof lodged with him, or require further evidence in support of it.

Proxies.

30. Proxies.] A proxy intended to be used at the first meeting of creditors or contributories, or an adjournment thereof, shall be lodged with the Official Receiver not later than the time mentioned for that purpose in the notice convening the meeting or adjourned meeting, which time shall be not earlier than 12 o'clock at noon of the day but one before nor later than 12 o'clock at noon of the day before the day appointed for such meeting, unless the court otherwise directs.

File of Proceedings.

31. File of proceedings in courts other than High Court.] In courts other than the High Court a file of proceedings in every winding-up matter shall be kept on which all petitions, affidavits, summonses, orders, proofs, notices, depositions, and other proceedings in the matter shall be placed and remain of record as far as possible in continuous order.

32. Inspection of file in all Courts.] Every person who has been a director or officer of a company which is being wound up and every duly authorized officer of the Board of Trade, shall be entitled, free of charge, and every contributory and every creditor whose claim or proof has been admitted, shall be entitled on payment of a fee of one shilling, at all reasonable times, to inspect the file of proceedings (whether in the High Court or any other Court) and to take copies or extracts from any documents therein, or to be furnished with such copies or extracts at a rate not exceeding fourpence per folio of seventy-two words.

33. Use of file by Board of Trade and Official Receiver.] Where, in the exercise of their functions under the Acts or rules, the Board of Trade or the Official Receiver require to inspect or use the file of proceedings in any matter, the Registrar shall (unless the file is at the time required for use in Court or by him), on request, transmit the file of proceedings to the Board of Trade or Official Receiver, as the case may be.

Miscellaneous.

34. Repeal.] The rules mentioned in the first column hereunder are annulled and modified to the extent mentioned in the second column:

35. Interpretation.] (1.) In the application of the Companies Winding-up Rules, 1890 and 1891, and these rules to any winding up matter to which these rules apply:—

Expressions relating to the Chief Clerks and Registrars of the Chancery Division of the High Court shall, except in Rule 133, be deemed to refer and be construed as referring to the Registrar. "Judge" shall in the High Court mean the Judge who for the time being exercises the jurisdiction of the High Court to wind up companies.

"Registrar" shall in the High Court mean and include any of the Registrars in Bankruptcy of the High Court, and any person who shall be appointed to fill the office of Registrar under these Rules, and where a winding-up matter is in the District Registry of Liverpool or Manchester shall mean the District Registrars.

(2.) In these rules the expression "the rules" means all the rules for the time being in force in relation to winding-up matters (including these rules).

36. Forms.] The forms in the Appendix specified in the first two columns hereunder shall be used in addition to the forms contained in the Appendix to the Companies Winding-up Rules, 1890, and in substitution for the forms contained in the said last-mentioned Appendix specified in the fourth column hereunder:

Court of Appeal.

ROGERS v. RICE—No. 2, 27th April.

FORFEITURE—LEASE—PROVISO FOR RE-ENTRY ON NON-REPAIR—ACTION—JUDGMENT FOR POSSESSION—RELIEF AGAINST FORFEITURE—CONVEYANCING ACT, 1881, s. 14, SUB-SECTIONS 1, 2.

This was an appeal from a decision of Kekewich, J., dismissing a summons of the plaintiff for relief under the following circumstances. By an indenture dated the 17th of July, 1851, Charles Rice granted to William Nash Round, by direction and at the request of James Church, a lease of certain premises known as No. 5, Sutherland-terrace, Brixton, for the term of seventy-two years less ten days from the 25th of December, 1850, at the yearly rent, after the first half-year, of £7. The interest of the said Charles Rice in the premises had become vested in the defendant as his legal personal representative. The lease contained a proviso for re-entry in the event of non-repair of the premises to the extent of £20. The interest of the said William Nash Round in the premises had been purchased by the plaintiff's mother, but since about the year 1881 the plaintiff had paid the rent of the premises, and had become, practically, the lessee. In the latter part of 1890 a notice was served by the lessor on the plaintiff to repair, which was not complied with. On the 13th of February, 1891, the defendant commenced an action in the Queen's Bench Division to recover possession of the premises and for damages for non-repair, and obtained a verdict and judgment on the 18th of July for recovery of possession, and for the sum of £50 damages for dilapidations, and costs. On the 28th of July the defendant's solicitors wrote, enclosing their bill of costs, to the plaintiff, with notice of taxation, and the defendant obtained possession under the judgment. In the month of August the plaintiff applied to the court for an extension of time for moving to set aside the verdict and judgment, and that the verdict and judgment might be set aside, but his application was refused. The plaintiff then took out an originating summons for relief against the forfeiture on which the judgment was founded, and on the 20th of November an order was made that, upon payment into court of the amount of the judgment debt and costs, all proceedings to enforce the judgment should be stayed until after the hearing of the summons. The summons was heard before Kekewich, J., and dismissed, with costs, on the 5th of February. The plaintiff appealed. Section 14 of the Conveyancing Act, 1881, enacts as follows:—Sub-section (1): "A right of re-entry or forfeiture under any proviso or stipulation in a lease, for a breach of any covenant or condition in the lease, shall not be enforceable, by action or otherwise, unless and until the lessor serves on the lessee a notice specifying the particular breach complained of . . ." Sub-section (2): "Where a lessor is proceeding, by action or otherwise, to enforce such a right of re-entry or forfeiture, the lessee may, in the lessor's action, if any, or in any action brought by himself, apply to the court for relief; and the court may grant or refuse relief, as the court, having regard to the proceedings and conduct of the parties under the foregoing provisions of this section, and to all the other circumstances, thinks fit . . ."

THE COURT (LORD COLERIDGE, C.J., and LINDLEY and KAY, L.JJ.) dismissed the appeal.

LORD COLERIDGE, C.J., said the judgment of the court below must be affirmed. The matter was quite clear. It was a case in which the 2nd sub-section of section 14 of the Conveyancing Act did not apply. That sub-section said that "where a lessor is proceeding, by action or otherwise, to enforce a right of re-entry or forfeiture, the lessee might . . . apply to the court for relief, and the court might grant or refuse relief, as it . . . thought fit." In the present case the proper notice had been given, and the lessor took proceedings to enforce his right of forfeiture. The action had proceeded to judgment and to execution, so far, at least, as redelivery of possession was concerned. It was not a case of the lessor "proceeding" to enforce his right, he had "proceeded" to enforce it, and had enforced it, and it was too late for the lessee to seek relief. The matter was clear on the words of the Act of Parliament by themselves. The point was considered in the case of Quilter v. Mapleson (31 W. R. 75, 9 Q. B. D. 672), and in a way adverse to the plaintiff here, although it was not necessary for the purposes of that case actually to decide it. The decision of Kekewich, J., therefore, must be affirmed.

LINDLEY and KAY, L.JJ., concurred.—COUNSEL, Renshaw, Q.C., and Bramwell Davis; Warmington, Q.C., and W. B. Allen. SOLICITORS, Francis Miller & Co.; Collins & Collins.

[Reported by ARTHUR LAWRENCE, Barrister-at-Law.]

High Court—Queen's Bench Division.

THE ENGLISH AND SCOTTISH INVESTMENT CO. v. BRANSTON—26th April.

COMPANY—DEBENTURE—DEBENTURE PROHIBITING THE GIVING OF ANY PRIOR CHARGE—CHARGE CREATED AFTER DEBENTURE—NOTICE OF CHARGE—EQUITABLE TITLES—PRIORITY.

Interpleader issue tried before Charles, J., without a jury, in which the learned judge took time to consider his judgment, which he now delivered in writing, the question being whether the plaintiffs or the defendant were entitled to a sum of money paid into court by the Sun Fire Office. The Electrical and Engineering Corporation (Limited) carried on business in certain premises which had been insured in the Sun Fire Office. These premises had been burnt down in January, 1891, and a sum of about £1,500 was admitted to be due from the Sun Fire Office to the company in respect of such fire. The Electrical and Engineering Corporation (Limited) was registered in January, 1890, with a certain capital, and power was given to the corporation to borrow money on mortgage and to issue debentures, payable to bearer or otherwise, and to charge or mortgage the whole or any part of the property, assets, and funds of the corporation as a specific charge or floating security. In pursuance of these powers certain debentures were issued, and the debenture-holders were represented by the defendant, who claimed the money now in question for these debenture-holders. These debentures were debentures which were to rank pari passu as a first charge on the property charged, and the charge thereby created was to be a floating security, "but so that the corporation is not to be at liberty to create any mortgage or charge in priority to the said debentures." Early in 1891 further money was required for the purposes of the undertaking, and this money was advanced by the plaintiffs, and it was so advanced upon the security of the sum of money which was then due from the Sun Fire Office in respect of the fire. This loan was effected by a deed which was made between the corporation and the plaintiffs as mortgagees, the deed reciting the insurances by the mortgagors with the Sun Office, and that a claim had arisen entitling them to at least £1,500, and that they had applied to the mortgagees for a loan of £1,400, which the mortgagees had agreed to lend upon repayment being secured as agreed upon, and the deed proceeded to assign by way of security the insurances and all moneys payable thereunder. On February 27 notice of this deed was given to the Sun Fire Office, and shortly afterwards the defendant, on behalf of the debenture-holders, commenced an action against the corporation, and an action was afterwards commenced by the defendant against the Sun Fire Office, and the money owing by the fire office was paid into court to abide the result of these interpleader proceedings, in which the question was as to the priority between the defendant, as representing the debenture-holders, who had given no notice of their position to the fire office, and the plaintiffs, who had made a subsequent loan, but who had given notice to the fire office.

CHARLES, J. (after stating the facts), proceeded:—It was suggested on the part of the plaintiffs that they had, even prior to the Judicature Act, 1873, s. 25, sub-section 6, a legal title; but it appears clear to me that, apart from the statute, their title was equitable and not legal; could they in their own name have maintained an action? By virtue of the 25th section, sub-section 6, they can now, no doubt, do so, although the assignment purports to be by way of charge only: see Tancred v. Delagou Bay Railway Co. (38 W. R. 15, 23 Q. B. D. 239). But their position is not thereby improved, for the sub-section expressly enacts that the assignee is to hold "subject to all equities which would have been entitled to priority over the right of the assignee if this Act had not passed." I must therefore regard the question as one between two persons having equitable titles, both having a charge on the insurance fund, the title of the debenture-holder being first in point of time, but not perfected by notice to the insurance company until after the plaintiffs had given the company notice of their title. There can be no doubt that as a general rule the giving of notice entitles the assignee who gives it to priority over a previous assignee who has not given notice. But it is said that this rule does not apply between two equitable assignees, the first of whom holds a security in such a form as renders a notice by him practically impossible, but only between two successive assignees of a specific sum, where each can give a notice if he pleases. The foundation of the doctrine that he who gives the notice first has a better equity was said to be the negligence to be imputed to the assignee who fails to give the notice: see Ryall v. Roicles (1 Ves. sen. 348), Dearle v. Hall (3 Russ. 1), Loveridge v. Cooper (3 Russ. 1, 30), Re Freshfield's Trust (11 Ch. D. 198). The mere failure to give it constitutes negligence; and it is equitable that the title of the assignee who is thus guilty of negligence should be postponed to that of him who uses diligence. Here it was pointed out that the debenture-holders were not in a position to give the Sun Fire Office a notice. Their charge was on the property of the corporation generally. They were not the assignees of the insurance fund specifically, and were, indeed, ignorant of its existence. No negligence, therefore, could be charged against them, and so it was contended that the doctrine of Dearle v. Hall did not apply. But I do not think that this view of the rule is supported by authority. It is, in my opinion, the giving of the notice which creates the priority: see Foster v. Cockerell (3 Cl. & Fin. 456), and if the former assignee is precluded from giving the notice, either by contract with the assignor, or by the nature of the charge which he holds, the same result should follow as in a case where a prior assignee has negligently omitted to give the notice which he might have given. There does not appear to me to be any difference in principle between the case—(1) of a person who can give the notice and does not; (2) of the person who has contracted not to give notice; and (3) of a person who, like the debenture-holder here, holds a security which, from its nature, prevents notice from being effectively given. In each case I think notice gives priority, unless the giver of it himself has either actual notice of the prior incumbrance, or else is in such a position and has such a degree of knowledge as is in equity equivalent to actual notice. In this case it is not disputed that Mr. Paine—the solicitor for the plaintiffs—knew that the corporation had issued debentures, and it was proved that a debenture might, according to present usage, be one of three forms—(1) it might be simply an acknowledgment of debt under seal; (2) it might be an instrument not only acknowledging the debt, but charging the property of the company issuing it with repayment; (3) it might be an instrument acknowledging the debt, charging the property of the company with repayment, and restricting the company from giving any prior charge. Either of the two first-named forms would not in any way affect the priority of the plaintiffs. A mere acknowledgment under seal of indebtedness would not avail against an assignee of a specific fund, and it was decided in Wheatley v. Silkstone and Haigh Moor Coal Co. (23 W. R. 797, 29 Ch. D. 715), that debentures in a form purporting to charge the property of the company with the debenture debts did not preclude the company from creating in the ordinary course, and for the purpose of the business, a charge in priority to the debenture-holders. It was, it would seem, in consequence of this decision that the third form of debenture was adopted, and both forms appear in "Palmer's Precedents" (ed. 1888). Mr. Paine had never, in fact, seen a debenture in the third form with the restrictive clause, and states that he had no suspicion after the interview of February 25 that the plaintiffs' security could be interfered with. All he knew was that debentures existed, and I think it must be taken that he did not know that they were in the form which had become usual in 1891. Mr. Paine ought to have insisted on seeing the debenture itself, when he would have discovered the restrictive clause, and the question in the case really reduces itself to this, Was his failure to look at the debenture or to make further inquiry into its contents that sort of negligence which ought to deprive the plaintiffs of their priority which their notice otherwise conferred upon them? The authorities cited on this part of the case were numerous, and appear to establish the principle that the negligence which will deprive a person who has done everything he can to complete his title of priority must be gross or culpable—must, indeed, be such a wilful shutting of eyes to inquiry as amounts to evidence of fraud: see Ware v. Lord Egmont (4 De G. M. & G. 473), Montefiore v. Browne (7 H. L. Cas. 241). Now, applying this principle to the present case, I do not think that Mr. Paine, the plaintiffs' solicitor, can be held guilty of culpable negligence in not pursuing his inquiries further. Constructive notice of the restrictive clause cannot, on that ground, in my opinion, be imputed to him; and he ought not to be affected merely because he has omitted to do all which a prudent and cautious person might have done: Fisher on Mortgages, 3rd ed., vol. 1, p. 565. But it was also urged that actual notice of the existence of debentures was enough to affect Mr. Paine with constructive notice of their form and contents, and that I ought to apply the rule according to which a purchaser or lessee having notice of a deed forming part of a chain of title of his vendor or lessor is held to have constructive notice of the contents of that deed. There appears, however, to be a clear distinction between documents which must necessarily, and those which may or may not, affect title: see Jones v. Smith (1 Hare, 55), Palman v. Harland (29 W. R. 707, 17 Ch. D. 353). To the latter class the rule is not applicable, and it is to this class that these debentures belong. In the result, then, I cannot impute constructive notice of the contents of the debentures to Mr. Paine, and my judgment must, therefore, be for the plaintiffs, with costs. Judgment for the plaintiffs, with costs.—COUNSEL, R. T. Reed, Q.C., T. T. Paine, and Sargent; A. Cohen, Q.C., Bremner, and Le Faus. SOLICITORS, Paine, Son, & Pollock; Dawson, Ainslie, & Martineau. #### COX v. HILL—28th April.

PRACTICE—COSTS—VERDICT FOR LESS THAN £20—JURISDICTION OF UNDERSHERIFF TO CERTIFY UNDER SECTION 116 OF THE COUNTY COURTS ACT, 1888 (51 & 52 VICT. c. 43).

The question in this case was whether an undersheriff who has presided at the hearing and assessment of damages in an action of tort has power to certify under section 116 of the County Courts Act, 1888, that there was sufficient reason for bringing the action in the High Court. The plaintiff commenced his action in the Birmingham District Registry of the Queen's Bench Division, claiming damages under Lord Campbell's Act for the negligence of the defendants, which had caused the death of his wife. The defendants appeared but delivered no defence, and the plaintiff obtained judgment by default. On the matter coming before the undersheriff of Warwickshire and a jury, the jury awarded £15 damages to the plaintiff, and the undersheriff certified that in his opinion there was sufficient reason for bringing the action in the High Court. Upon taxation the defendants contended that the plaintiff was only entitled to costs on the county court scale, and the district registrar declined to tax on the High Court scale without the order of a judge of the High Court. Pollock, B., dismissed the plaintiff's application for such an order, and the plaintiff now appealed. The County Courts Act, 1888, s. 116, provides that if the plaintiff in an action of tort "shall recover a sum of ten pounds or upwards, but less than twenty pounds, he shall not be entitled to any more costs than he would have been entitled to if the action had been brought in a county court unless . . . a judge of the High Court certifies that there was sufficient reason for bringing the action in that court, or unless the High Court or a judge thereof at chambers shall by order allow costs." It was contended on behalf of the defendants that the words in the corresponding section of the County Courts Act, 1867 (30 & 31 VICT. c. 142), s. 5—"the judge"—had the same meaning as the words "a judge of the High Court" in the present Act, and that decisions upon that section showed that it was competent for an undersheriff to certify: Craven v. Smith (L. R. 4 Ex. 146), Taylor v. Cass (L. R. 4 C. P. 614). It was stated that it was a common practice for undersheriffs to give such a certificate.

MATHEW, J., after reading section 116, said that it was clear that in such cases costs on the High Court scale could only be obtained by one or other of the methods specified in the section, and not by means of a certificate from the undersheriff.

A. L. SMITH, J., thought that the words "judge of the High Court" were inserted in section 116 with the express object of getting rid of Craven v. Smith and Taylor v. Cass. Appeal dismissed.—COUNSEL, Wilkey Wright; Stuart Sankey. SOLICITORS, Wilkinson & Hossack; Munton & Morris, for Sanders, Smith, & Parish, Birmingham. [Reported by T. E. C. DILL, Barrister-at-Law.]

MILLINGTON v. HARWOOD—13th April.

COUNTY COURT—COSTS—ACTION ON CONTRACT—JUDGMENT FOR £50 AND COSTS—TAXATION—TO WHAT COSTS PLAINTIFF IS ENTITLED—SECTION 116 OF THE COUNTY COURTS ACT, 1888—R. S. C., LXV., 12.

Summons to review a taxation of costs referred to the court by Pollock, B. In an action founded on contract, brought in the High Court and tried before Charles, J., without a jury, the plaintiff recovered a judgment for £50 and costs. The learned judge refused to certify that there was sufficient reason for bringing the action in the High Court, and simply gave judgment for the plaintiff with costs. On the bill of costs being carried in for taxation, the taxing master taxed the plaintiff's costs on the county court scale only, and refused to tax them on the Supreme Court scale. A summons was taken out by the plaintiff asking for a review of this taxation, and that it might be ordered that the plaintiff's costs should be taxed according to the scale in use in the Supreme Court. This summons came before Pollock, B., at chambers, who referred the summons to the court, the question being whether, when a plaintiff in an action of contract recovers a sum of £50 and costs, he is entitled to have High Court costs, or only county court costs. Section 116 of the County Courts Act, 1888 (51 & 52 VICT. c. 43), provides as follows:—"With respect to any action brought in the High Court which could have been commenced in a county court, the following provisions shall apply:—(1) If in an action founded on contract the plaintiff shall recover a sum less than twenty pounds, he shall not be entitled to any costs of the action, and if he shall recover a sum of twenty pounds or upwards, but less than fifty pounds, he shall not be entitled to any more costs than he would have been entitled to if the action had been brought in a county court." R. S. C., ord. 65, r. 12, provides that: "In actions founded on contract, in which the plaintiff recovers, by judgment or otherwise, a sum (exclusive of costs) not exceeding £50, he shall be entitled to no more costs than he would have been entitled to had he brought his action in a county court, unless the court or a judge otherwise orders." For the plaintiff it was now contended that as the sum recovered was just £50, the plaintiff was entitled to costs on the High Court scale; that by section 67 of the Judicature Act, 1873, section 116 of the County Courts Act, 1888, applied to the case, and that the case was within section 116, which deprived a plaintiff of High Court costs only in case he recovered "less than £50," which was not so here; that as the Act of 1888 was later than ord. 65, r. 12, it impliedly repealed so much of that rule as applied to a judgment for £50, and that as section 116 deprived a plaintiff of costs when he recovered less than £50, by implication that meant to give the plaintiff his costs if he recovered £50 or upwards.

A. L. SMITH, J.—This is an appeal by a plaintiff to have his costs taxed on the High Court scale in an action tried before Charles, J., who gave judgment for the plaintiff for £50 with costs. The question is whether or not upon that judgment the plaintiff is only entitled to costs on the county court scale. I have always understood the practice to be that when a plaintiff recovered £50 he got only county court costs; as regards the rule—ord. 65, r. 12—it says that if he recovers a sum not exceeding £50, then he is only to have costs on the county court scale. Now that rule was introduced in 1883, but then it was said that the statute of 1888 has limited or superseded the rule of 1883 upon this point. I do not think that that is so at all. If a person brings an action in the High Court which he could have brought in the county court, then if he recovers less than £20 he gets no costs at all, and if he recovers a sum of £20 or upwards, but less than £50, then he is only to get county court costs. How can it be said that this repeals the rule? I do not read it so, and as the plaintiff here has recovered only £50, the rule says he is to have only county court costs.

WRIGHT, J.—I am of the same opinion. It is quite clear that section 116 does not directly apply to the present case. The argument is that the section is later than the rule and supersedes the rule. Now in order to arrive at that conclusion, namely, that there is an implied repeal of the order, it must be shown that there is some inconsistency between the section and the order. But there is no such inconsistency, as the rule relates only to part of the same matter to which the Act applies. It is not competent to the court, in my judgment, to imply a repeal when there is no inconsistency. Appeal dismissed.—COUNSEL, Roskill; Shearman. SOLICITORS, Millington & Drew; Gordon & Dalbiac.

Bankruptcy Cases.

Re A CONTRACT BETWEEN THE NEW LAND DEVELOPMENT ASSOCIATION (LIM.) AND JAMES FAGENCE—No. 2, 11th April.

BANKRUPTCY—UNDISCHARGED BANKRUPT—AFTER-ACQUIRED PROPERTY—REAL ESTATE—CONVEYANCE BY BANKRUPT—PROPERTY CERTING IN TRUSTEE—RIGHTS OF TRUSTEE—BANKRUPTCY ACT, 1883 (46 & 47 VICT. c. 52), ss. 44, 54, 168.

This was an appeal from the decision of Chitty, J. (reported 40 W. R. 295). The question, which was raised by a summons under the Vendor and Purchaser Act, 1874, was how far dealings by an undischarged bankrupt with after-acquired real property were binding on the trustee in bankruptcy. The facts were as follows:—The vendors, the above-named land company, claim one moiety of the property through William Shirley, who was adjudged a bankrupt in July, 1888, and was still undischarged. After the adjudication—viz., in April, 1890—Mrs. Shirley died, having devised the land, the subject of this contract, to her nephews, William Shirley and Joseph Shirley, in equal moieties, and in October, 1890,

William Shirley and Joseph Shirley sold and conveyed their respective moiety to the vendors, who had no knowledge of the bankruptcy. The trustee in bankruptcy did not intervene before the execution of the conveyance, and in May, 1891, the vendors, who were still unaware of the bankruptcy, contracted to sell the property to Fagence, the present purchaser, who searched and discovered the fact of the bankruptcy. As the trustee in bankruptcy declined either to waive his rights or to take any steps to enforce them, but merely insisted that the bankrupt's moiety was vested in him, the purchaser took out this summons for a declaration that a good title had not been shewn, and for a return of his deposit. Chitty, J., decided that the legal estate vested in the trustee immediately on the death of the testatrix, when the devised moiety came into being, and made an order for the return of the deposit with interest at four per cent., and he also declared that the purchaser was entitled to a lien for the same and for his costs as in Turner v. Marriott (15 W. R. 420, L. R. 3 Eq. 744). The vendors appealed. It was contended on their behalf that the proposition laid down by the Master of the Rolls and the Lords Justices in the case of Cohen v. Mitchell (38 W. R. 551, 25 Q. B. D. 262)—namely, that until the trustee intervened all transactions by a bankrupt after his bankruptcy with any person dealing with him bona fide and for value in respect of his after-acquired property, whether with or without knowledge of the bankruptcy, were valid against the trustee—applied to real estate as well as to personal property, and therefore covered the present case.

THE COURT (LINDLEY, BOWEN, and KAY, L.J.J.), without calling upon counsel for the respondent, dismissed the appeal.—COUNSEL, Horace Kent; Inspen. SOLICITORS, John Hands; Beaumont, Son, & Rigden, for Paine & Brettell, Chertsey, Surrey.

Solicitors' Cases.

Re KNIGHT, KNIGHT v. GARDNER—Kekewich, J., 12th April.

SOLICITOR'S LIEN—FUND REPRESENTING PRODUCE OF REAL ESTATE—CHANGE OF SOLICITORS—CHARGING ORDERS—PRIORITY.

In 1879 an action was commenced for the general administration of the estate of G. K., deceased. An administration judgment was made on the 3rd of May, 1879, and certain inquiries, including an inquiry who was the heir-at-law of G. K., were directed to be made. On the 19th of February, 1880, a receiver was appointed, and he from time to time paid income of the real estate into court. Among the persons who claimed to be the heir-at-law of J. K. was one J. S. P. On the 25th of October, 1882, W. S. P. became the solicitor of J. S. P. and acted as such for about two years, during which time there were several proceedings in the action. On the 12th of November, 1884, E. & Co. became solicitors to J. S. P. in the place of W. S. P. In 1887 the chief clerk made his certificate finding one S. K. to be the heir-at-law of J. K., but his finding was varied by Kay, J., who declared J. S. P. to be the heir-at-law. An appeal was made against this decision, and pending the appeal, on the 19th of October, 1887, another change of solicitors took place, L. S. succeeding E. & Co. On the 4th of November, 1887, while the appeal was still pending, W. S. P. obtained a charging order, declaring him to be entitled to a charge upon the real estate and upon the surplus income thereof for his taxed costs, charges, and expenses as the solicitor of J. S. P. The declaration was expressed to be made without prejudice to the question whether E. & Co. were entitled to a prior charge for their costs, charges, and expenses as solicitor to J. S. P. On the 19th of June, 1889, after the hearing of the appeal, E. & Co. also obtained a charging order, which was made subject to L. S.'s claim in respect of the costs of the appeal. An application was now made to the court to decide in what order the solicitors above named were entitled to be paid their costs out of the fund in court, which represented the income of the real estate, to which J. S. P. was entitled as heir-at-law. On behalf of L. S. it was contended that the case was within the rule laid down in Cormack v. Beisly (3 De G. & J., at p. 162), and followed in Re Wadsworth (34 Ch. D. 155). On behalf of E. & Co. it was argued that a solicitor's common law lien did not affect real estate (Shaw v. Neale, 6 H. L. Cas. 581), that Re Wadsworth had been overruled by North v. Stewart (15 App. Cas. 452), and that the rights of the solicitors must be governed by the charging orders independent of common law liens.

KEKEWICH, J., said that he considered Shaw v. Neale had no application to the present case, which was concerned with what was no doubt the produce, that was the income, of real estate, but which existed in the form of a fund in court recovered by means of the proceedings in the action. In his opinion Cormack v. Beisly and Re Wadsworth were not affected by North v. Stewart. The rule laid down in those two cases was applicable to the present case. He, therefore, held that the order in which the solicitors were entitled to be paid their costs out of the fund was 1st, L. S.; 2ndly, E. & Co.; and 3rdly, W. S. P.; and he further thought that they must add their costs of the application to those otherwise due to them in the action, so that those likewise would be paid in the same order.—COUNSEL, B. Eyre; Ashton Cross; L. H. Jenkins. SOLICITORS, Eyre & Co.; C. T. C. Lewis; Trinder & Capron.

JUNIOR CLERKSHIPS IN THE OFFICE OF WOODS AND FORESTS.

We understand that an examination will be held on the 12th of July for four clerkships in H.M. Office of Woods and Forests. The salary is £100, rising by annual increments of £15 to £250, with prospects of promotion. Candidates must have served for three years in a solicitor's office, and be not less than twenty or more than twenty-five years of age. The subjects of examination are—handwriting, orthography, arithmetic, composition, précis, digesting returns into summaries, law of real property (especially of law of landlord and tenant) and conveyancing. Optional subjects—translation of Latin into English, geography of British Isles, history of England. Great weight is, we believe, attached to the legal subjects. Intending candidates can obtain the necessary forms from the Civil Service Commission, Cannon-row, S.W.

GENERAL.

It is stated that Sir Charles Butt is improving in health, but is still staying at Wiesbaden.

The following are the arrangements made for hearing probate and divorce causes during the ensuing Easter Sittings:—Causes for hearing before the court itself will be taken on April 26th and the following days—(1) undefended matrimonial, (2) probate, (3) defended matrimonial. Jury causes will not be taken during the Easter Sittings. Summonses before the judge will be heard in chambers at 10.15, and motions will be heard in court at 11.30, on April 26th and on every succeeding Tuesday during the sittings. Summonses before the registrars will be heard at the Probate Registry, Somerset House, on each Monday and Thursday during the sittings, at 11.30.

In Committee on the Evidence in Criminal Cases Bill, which provides that every person charged with an offence, and the husband or wife, as the case may be, of the person so charged, shall be a competent witness, Mr. Knox, says the Times, will move amendments substituting the words "indicted for a felony or misdemeanour" for "charged with an offence," and limiting the application of the Act to Great Britain. Baron Dimsdale intends to move the insertion of a new clause empowering courts to assign legal assistance to the accused in criminal cases when the person about to be tried has not the means wherewith to brief an advocate, the remuneration of such advocate being paid in England and Ireland as if it were part of the expenses of a prosecution for felony, and in Scotland out of the county general assessment made and levied in terms of the County General Assessment Act, 1868.

CHANCERY DIVISION.

EASTER SITTINGS, 1892.

Causes for Trial or Hearing.

(Set down to Thursday, April 14th, inclusive.)

Motions, Petitions, and Short Causes will be taken on the usual days, as stated in the Easter Sittings Paper.

Mr. Justice Chitty will take Witness Actions on the following days—viz., May 10, 11, 12, 17, 18, 19. In the weeks when Non-Witness Actions are taken, Further Considerations will be taken on Tuesdays. In the weeks when Witness Actions are taken, Further Considerations will not be taken on Tuesdays, but may be taken on Saturdays.

Mr. Justice North and Mr. Justice Stirling will give directions as to the order in which Causes and Further Considerations will be taken in their lordships' courts, after the commencement of the Sittings, of which notice will be given on the Daily Cause List.

Mr. Justice Kekewich will proceed with the business in his lordship's court for Easter Sittings as follows:—"Appleton v. Leeds Corporation," Action with Witnesses, to be argued on costs only, will be at the head of the paper on Wednesday, April 27. "Gadd v. Corporation of Manchester," Action with Witnesses, will be resumed on Tuesday, May 3. With these exceptions no Action with Witnesses will be taken until the Actions and Matters Without Witnesses appearing in the printed List have been exhausted. They will be taken in the following order: 1st, Adjudged Summons; 2nd, Further Considerations; 3rd, Non-Witness Actions. His lordship will take Liverpool and Manchester Business as follows:—Motions on days appointed for Motions, Short Causes, Petitions, and Adjudged Summons on Saturdays. Summons in Chambers on Friday afternoons. Liverpool and Manchester Summons will be taken on alternate Fridays, commencing with Liverpool Summons on Friday, April 29. Mr. Justice Romer will take Witness Actions every day in the order as they stand in the Cause Book.

Summons before the judge in chambers.—Justices Chitty, North, Stirling, and Kekewich will sit in court the whole day on every Monday during the sittings to hear chamber summonses.

Summons adjourned into court will be taken as follows:—Mr. Justice Chitty, with Non-Witness Actions, except Procedure Summons, which (if any) are taken every Saturday; Mr. Justice Stirling, with Non-Witness Actions. Justices North and Kekewich on Fridays and Saturdays.

N.B.—The above Note as to Chamber and Adjudged Summons is subject to alteration as their lordships may direct.

Before Mr. Justice Chitty.
